THE OLD CLOCK.

It has ticked with the bell That a wedding could tell, It has ticked-keeping time with the song. It has ticked at the birth, Of a soul brought to earth, To battle and grow with the strong.

It has ticked through the night. When the small shaded light Saw the weary, lond watchers above, With the breath dying fist, Ere the life-lease was past, Of a parent or child whom they love.

It has ticked to the tread As they carry the dead. Through the old fashioned hallway and door And it ticked right along, Just as steady und strong, When the limeral service was o'er.

Tis an lonest old hand Tracing round the old dial each day; But it seems to foretell, With a n ystic spell, How swittly our lives pass away.

Locking of I with the rest Of the modern apparel and wear; With its wondering gaze, At the present odd ways, Of the new generation an I fare.

There's a problem to solve, As the hands slow revolve. Whether no lern lolks, manners and all, Are as true and as good, As the old folks so rude, Whose hands placed the clock in the hall.

Proctor's "Bench and Bur" contains the following anecdote of William L. Marey:

Anecdote of William L. Marcy.

There was a debating society connected with GRANT GREEN, the Adams Academy, in Leicester, Massa-chusetts, to which young Marcy belonged. Though very young, he was one of the chief disputants, but the partisan sentiments of the disputants, but the partisan sentiments of the principal (Mr. Adams prevailed in the society. In the discussions, Jefferson and his principles were often assaifed with great bitterness. The young student admired the rising statesman, and he repelled these attacks single-handed and alone. The ability which he displayed in his defense began to exert an influence in the institution. At length everal of the students united with him, and Marcy tound himself the centre of a small but increasing party. Dr. centre of a small but increasing party. Dr. agers. Adams saw this and deemed it his duty to interfere. Accordingly, he summoned the young man before him for the purpose of expostulating with him upon the course he was pursuing, in advancing his dangerous political sentiments. To his surprise, he found the young Democrat as firm and nuffinehing in his presence as he was in the debate.

It was in vain that the good doctor reasoned threatened and cajoled. He was met with argin jits which puzzled him to answer, and which were firmly but modesty maintained. At length Mr. Ad one saw that matters most be brought to a decided answer.

"Art I to understand, then," said he "that you are determined to openly advocate the cause and principles of that inlidel, Jefferson,

"If I hear him or his principles openly at-tacked I stid certainly defend him. If, how-ever, you will form I all aliusion to politis here, I will most cheerfully subscribe to the

"It is my duty, sir, to expose error and wickedness in all ways, and in every manner, and to teach my pupils to do the same and therefore, cannot establish such a rule," said

"Tien, sir, if you allow one class of students to discuss politics you should give others the same privilege," said the young supply of the best Ales by the bottle. He will do

No, sir; not when one side proposes to advocate inlidelity and ull manner of evil," said the doctor.

"Who is to be the judge as to what political principles are erroneous? asked Marcy. 1 our, su; and to be plain, you must abandon all public utterance of your sentiments

"And if I do not obey this order, what is to sir," said the doctor, with some warmth.

oThe is bigotry and injustice, Dr. Adams, and I shall leave your institution. My father alteratory, 142 Frankhu street. Ba imore, sep22-1v free discussion is not tolerated-where narrow bigoted soutiments can be advanced in the hearing of those who differ from them, and where the privilege of replying is forbilden; and as for Mr. Jefferson, his memory will be venerated long after his traducers are forgotten, said the student, the deep glow upon his check and the fire in his eye evineing the death of the teclines which proported the second depth of the feelings which prompted this answer. The next day he returned home and faithfully related to his father all that occurred between him and Dr. Adams.

You did right, just right, my doy," said the father. "Accest furly our banner to the enemies of Thomas Jefferson, and never turn your back on the Democratic ship, which, under his command, is bound on a long and prosper-

Marcy soon after entered another academy, where he completed his preparatary course, and then entered Brown's University at Provideuce, Riode Island, where he graduated.

A STRANGE TALE OF DIVORCE.

Steamboat Departures.

Steamboat Departures. A strange case of divorce was decided in the was allowed her by the Legislature is now worth nearly a million. In 1857, Hill married again, and during the war Mrs. Hill went to Europe, and in consequence of some misconduct while there her husband sued for divorce ays, as follows:

Subsequently, she was reported drowned which proved false. Afterward she became attached to the household of King Victor Em-wife, brought suit to compel Samuel Simmons to purchase a piece of property, according to agreement. He refused, on the ground that the divorce granted by the Legislature was if legal, and a clear title to the property could not be given. The question was taken to the Supreme Court, which decided against the Legisla are, and, to obviate all difficulties, II.II ap

The Phonomens of Earthquase.

In earthquakes, says the People's Magazine, we see the conservative agency of fire called in to counteract the destructive agency of water. Wind and rain, heat and cold, are continually at work mending in pieces and grinding down the solid rock; the disintegrated portions of the rock from the soil of the low-lands, and this in its turn is eaten away by running streams, swept down by heavy rains, to be carried by the rivers and deposited in the sea. It is thus that the shallows and great river deltas are formed; and the materials so translated over the bed of the cannot be carried by the rivers and deposited in the first counterposited in the sea. It is thus that the shallows and great river deltas are formed; and the materials so translated over the bed of the cannot be carried by the rivers and deposited in the first counterposited in the sea. Lake for the apprehension of Rentardy, A. D. Lake for the apprehension of Rentardy and R highest mountain ranges; and in the place of a varied surface of land and water there would be a uniform shallow sea covering the whole enrth. Here the working of fire steps in to counteract the destructive agency of water. It nets suddenly and with terrific force, and therefore it is more noted and feared than the work which is done so silently and slowly, yet that at a comparatively small depth below the surface of the globe there is a temperature very far exceeding anything which we experienced at the surface. Whether we accept the hypothesis of a vast central lire, or consider that this heat is generated by chemical action or by electric currents, we know that there are stored up beneath our feet vast

What gases are stored under pressure in the eavities of the earth we know not. But we know that the increased expansive force of an elastic fluid under a comparatively small increase of temperature would be sufficient to rend asunder the solid rock and produce the effects we see. Perhaps a fissure so opened may admit water to the heated nucleus, there to be instantly converted into steam with vast increase of volume. This exerting enormous pressure against the rocky walls of the earity in which it was formed causes a wave of compression in the zone of the rock immediately surrounding it, and this wave is propagated onward through the rock, just as a wave travels through water. The confined fluid strikes the walls of its prison chamber a fierce blow and this causes a shudder to run through the earth, which passes along the surface as a shock, whose intensity is the only measure we have of the forces causing it.

The road passed out of ilonesdale by a sharp porthwesterly curve, with a moderate grade, and was carried over the Luckawaxen by a long hemlock trestling, considered too frail by many to support the great weight of the mysterions looking engine all ready for the haz irdous journey.

As the crowd gathered from far and near, expecting that bridge, locamotive, and all, would plunge into the stream the moment pasrage was attempted, no one dired to run th locomotive across the chasm but Major Hora tio Allen, who, nmid exultation and praise, passed over the bridge and a portion of the his account of this lirst trip of a locomotive on this continent says: "As I placed my band on the throttle, I was undecided whether I would nove slowly or with a fair degree of suced."

Young lawyers sometimes despair of defenses which give no encouragement; but old practitioners-more especially when the lees are remnnerative and certain—can see no discourage-ments held forth by the evidence not to be counterbalanced and overcome by professional astuteness and sagacity well paid. A prisoner was once arraigned in Kent county. LARS

Michigan, for stealing pork. He retained a and his del young, talented, and ingenious member of the profession for his defense. llaving listened to the prisoner's own story

"Never you mind," was the confident reply:

you argue my case good and strong, just as you believe me a persecuted man, and I will give you twenty dollars."

The lawyer worked up the contract, and betore he had half summed up he had the jury in tears at the bare idea of snatching such a bright example of domestic and social worth from the bosom of his family and the society of his neighbors, to be thrust among felons in discharge of the prisoner, and the twenty dollars having been paid over, the lawyer said:

"By the way, B——, that was a most surp is ng virdict, considering what the government proved.

Of one thing we are sure, that carthquakes are caused by the internal heat of the earth. They usually occur in volcanic regions; they are frequently accompanied by volcanic eruptions; during their continuance flames are said to burst from the earth, springs of boiling water rise from the soil, and new volcanoes have been raised as their result. The lawyer worked up the contract, and before he had half summed up he had the jury in tears at the bare idea of snatching such a bright example of domestic and social worth from the bosom of his family and the society of his neighbors, to be thrust among felous in the common jail.

To his astonishment his appeal was effective—the prisoner was acquitted.

Closeted together after the verdict and the discharge of the prisoner, and the twenty dollars having been pand over, the lawyer said:

"By the way, B—, that was a most surplied by the way, B—, that was a most surplied by the way, B—, that was a most surplied by the way is a privided, considering what the government proved."
